Office of Pros. Att.
Winston W. Hill

Mrs. J. W. Adkins,
Circleville, Ohio.

Dear Mrs. Adkins:-
It has come to me, that rumors are afloat to the effect that your son, Joe Adkins, was intoxicated on the evening of April 26th, 1929, when the fatal accident occurred in which James Begg, Jr., with whom your son was riding, was killed and another passenger, William Caples, was injured.

Allow me to say that I immediately set to work personally to investigate the above report and I found that your son, Joseph Adkins, was not intoxicated, nor had he taken a drink of any intoxicating liquor on the day of April 26, 1929.

We all know that rumors of all description are started after any accident in which college folk figure but you may rest assured that your son was entirely the gentleman and that he absolutely did not touch one drop of any sort of intoxicating liquor the day of the fatal accident and I also wish to state that after talking with boys who have known Joe, I find that Joe does not drink liquor.

Sincerely
Winston W. Hill

Mrs. Adkins says, she also had a personal visit from Coach Denick of the College of Delaware, who with Prosecuting Attorney Hill was with Joseph immediately after the terrible accident and during the evening and he verifies everything said in the above letter by Winston W. Hill.

FIND STUDENT TIED TO TREE

Bainbridge Youth Bound In Woods Near Chillicothe
For 24 Hours.

CHILICOTHE, O., April 30.—Joseph Ferneau, Jr., 20, of Bainbridge, near here, was in a local hospital today in a greatly weakened condition after having been tied to a tree for 24 hours in a woods near here by a young robber who stole the youth's car, watch and a small amount of money.

According to the story that Ferneau, a student at the Ohio State university at Columbus, gasped out to police after he was found yesterday afternoon, he had given the robber a "lift" in his car.

When they reached a point about two miles from this city, the robber, described by Ferneau as a young man, forced Ferneau from the car and into a nearby woods. Once there, Ferneau related, the robber took his belt and tied the university student to a tree, gagged and robbed him and then fled.

Ferneau was found yesterday by Jimmy Johnson, of McArthur, near here, who happened into the woods hunting groundhogs. He released Ferneau and helped the youth into McArthur, and county authorities and the lad's parents were notified.

The youth was taken to a hospital here and is said to be suffering from shock and exposure. It will be several days before he is allowed to leave the hospital.

3 FIGHTS IN CONGRESS ON HOOVER IDEAS

Victories Seen For President
In Mellon and Farm Relief Measures.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—The administration faced political skirmishes in the senate today and three widely separated battle fronts, due to strenuous opposition to presidential policies.

The clash over President Hoover's right to retain Andrew W. Mellon as secretary of the treasury was before the senate judiciary committee, where another effort was to be made to reach a decisive vote. A private poll of the committee by International News Service revealed seven senators lined up with the President, and Mellon with six senators favoring the Norris resolution, which would declare Mellon ineligible for his cabinet post. Four senators were recorded as "doubtful," indicating the final vote would be close.

The senate agriculture committee met at the same time to determine whether the testimony of two department of agriculture experts should be made public. These experts, Eric England and O. C. Stine, endorsed the export debenture plan of farm relief. Their advice was ignored by the President when he wrote congress he would not approve the plan. If the experts' testimony is published, it will serve to indicate the President did not follow the advice of his most qualified subordinates—a revelation that administration leaders will seek to block.

OPPOSE RECOMMENDATION
The third skirmish was on the immigration front, where a number of bolting Republican leaders, aided by numerous Democrats, are fighting the President's appeal for repeal of the National Origins act. Senator David A. Reed (R) of Penna. already has described the President's recommendation as "shocking" and threatened to block any action on it at the special session, despite Mr. Hoover's appeal.

In the battle over Secretary Mellon's cabinet service, the President probably will win a victory in the end. The contest however, may cause him considerable embarrassment before a decision is reached. Those opposing Mellon's service will reveal, once the matter reaches the floor of the senate, that the treasury head while in the cabinet has participated in business conferences, regarding the affairs of the giant aluminum company of America.

HOOVER VICTORY SEEN
The President meanwhile was assured of victory in the farm relief battle. There were plain indications the senate would reject the debenture plan, due to Mr. Hoover's disapproval of it.

The immigration war, however, seemed likely to bring defeat to the President. The immigration committee already has defied his recommendation by a four to two vote. The senate undoubtedly will uphold the committee and oppose the President's demand for a return to the old immigration quotas.

Grandmother Who Distributed
Sex Pamphlets May Refuse To Pay Fine.

NEW YORK, April 30.—White-haired, 53-year-old Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, the fighting grandmother, today began preparing for a possible trip to the federal penitentiary in the near future for the cause of free sex instruction to the young.

Next Thursday, the stay of execution of the $300 fine which she received following her conviction for sending "the sex side of life" through the mail, will expire. "I shall never pay that fine as a protest against such a verdict," declared Mrs. Dennett today. "I shall go to jail first because the government is physically stronger than I."

Of course, Mrs. Dennett's counsel will appeal her conviction of violating the obscenity laws. The circuit court of appeals will hear the matter but legal observers predict there is little basis, from a judicial point of view, for a reversal of the verdict.

Meanwhile, a nation-wide campaign was underway today in support of Mrs. Dennett's stand. A number of prominent educators, ministers and doctors plan to sign a copy of the Dennett pamphlet and mail it to President Hoover as a further protest.

Noah's Flood Only Local Deluge, Babylonian Excavators Point Out

BERKELEY, Cal., April 30.—of this or that local event but from some local catastrophe that happened in Babylon which became the model for local stories of the flood.

Recent excavations in Babylon, according to a University of California archeologist, point to the fact that the deluge which is supposed to have inundated the entire world probably was only a local deluge which flooded 10 miles of delta land.

Tales of the Babylonian flood probably spread into central Asia, Arabia, Egypt and Europe because of the similarity of the flood story to those of other local floods it is claimed.

This explanation of the flood that caused Noah's fame is revealed through recent excavations at Ur and Kish in southwestern Babylonia together with excavations elsewhere in the delta country of the Tigris and Euphrates rivers.

What Constitutes Obscenity? Jury At New York Says Dennett Book

Sons See Mother Convicted for Work to Help Them

TWELVE solemn men of Brooklyn guessed that Mary Ware Dennett's pamphlet, "The Sex Side of Life," would have that effect. The law's test for obscenity is whether the accused writings might corrupt the minds and morals of those into whose hands they might fall.

They reached their forty-two minute verdict of guilty without giving their attention or their thought to two tall young men who sat, quietly smoldering with anger, beside the bright-eyed, alert-minded little grandmother convicted of being a lewd and corrupt force.

For Mrs. Dennett, ever-rebellious daughter of a flinty intellectual New England house, placed her "sex primer" in the hands of one of those sons when he was fourteen and of the other when he was a boarding school boy of 11.

Now, grown to the easy self-reliance of manhood, both of them married, one the foster-father of two daughters, the other father of two children of his own, they were Mary Ware Dennett's best argument that a clearly-phrased and truthful explanation of the human sexual relationship is not corruptive of adolescent minds and morals.

It was written for them primarily, Mrs. Dennett found herself confronted by the usual problem of the parent, confronted by the curiosity of a child reaching adolescence and an awakening interest in the world.

Many were flagrantly false and inaccurate. Others, a few, were revoltingly explicit in their purely professional treatment of the theme.

MRS. MARY WARE DENNETT

So she wrote her own version, flavored it with her own sanely sentimental honesty, and mailed that original typewritten manuscript to her elder son, Carlton.

At fourteen he and she recalled he was just reaching the stage of curiosity which many boys and girls come to much younger. Already he knew, from her instruction, the prefatory facts about propagation, but he had reached the age where he must know more—and where he would gain that knowledge, one way or another, in spite of any hindrance.

She mailed him the copy. His letters to her in the next month contained no comment on it. When he returned he suddenly recalled it one day. "Hey, mother," he hastily informed her, "that was all right." And that was the sum of his comment.

The mere existence of the pamphlet—of which 26,000 copies were distributed through or with the endorsement of the Y. M. C. A.'s, Y. W. C. A.'s, churches, social and child welfare organizations, and kindred agencies before the government indicted Mrs. Dennett for circulating obscene literature—was such an accepted fact in the minds of Carlton Dennett and his brother Devon, four years his junior, that neither could believe it when their mother was charged with being a criminal.

"I'd had a copy around with me, at school or at home, ever since I was a kid of eleven," Devon explained.

The two sons have been with their nerve-strained mother in all of her court appearances, although neither of them can afford the time or the financial loss.

What do they think of their mother's conviction? Of the jury which found her guilty? Of Federal Judge Warren B. Burrows from New London, who balked nearly every line of the defense prepared by Morris L. Ernst, the adroit defense counsel?

Of James E. Wilkinson, the Assistant United States Attorney, who thundered "that woman is trying to corrupt the pure boys and girls of America with her filth?"

Supreme Court May Decide Status of Home Brew on Local District Appeal

Possession in Residence Held
Illegal—Decision Has Reverse Precedent.

Is it lawful, under the Ohio statutes, to "possess" home brew in one's own private residence?

Strange to say, this particular question has never yet been finally passed on by the State Supreme court.

But the decision of the Court of Appeals of this district, in a Vinton county case, just received in Chillicothe by Louis M. Day, attorney for Edward Cooper, promises to bring that particular, promises before the Supreme court.

What adds special importance to this issue is that two opposite decisions have been handed down on it by higher courts. There are, therefore, conflicting court opinions which the Supreme court must settle as the final law of the state. This conflict is added to by the Appeals court of this district.

Incidentally, the opinion in this case was one of the last handed down by Judge W. H. Middetown and Blosser J. Mauck, in holding that possession of home brew in one's private residence is illegal.

The case in brief was as follows: Cooper had been found guilty in the Common Pleas court of Vinton county of violating the liquor possession law when he, through his attorney, Louis Day, admitted that he had 88 bottles of beer in his home; that he had made the beer and that it contained over one-half a percent of alcohol. He claimed, however, that he "possessed" the beer in his own residence, which, Attorney Day argued, was legal and had so been decided in a case in the Eighth District Court of Appeals in Cleveland in the Jeantnik case.

The state, on the contrary, claimed it had been decided in what is known as the Donahue case, also a Vinton-co case, that such possession was unlawful.

The Court of Appeals of this district sustained the lower court having found Cooper guilty of violating the law and fined him for it.

The way was distinctly left open, however, by Judges Middleton, Mauck and Blosser, for a hearing of the Cooper case in the State Supreme court, when they added to their decision the statement that, in view of conflicting court opinions on the issue, Cooper was entitled to a "certificate of conflict" and that if he so elected, such a certification would be made.

Cooper's attorney L. M. Day, said that his client would certainly elect to take such a certificate.

CONFESSES TO KILLING WIFE, BURNING BODY

Mumbles Details of Crime At
Fire Scene After Offering
To Help Police.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 30.—The aplomb and self-assurance which characterized Earl Francis Peacock when he voluntarily surrendered to authorities and offered to "help" them solve the slaying of his young wife, Mrs. Dorothy Heinzelman Peacock, gave way to hysterical babbling today when the boy-husband was led to the scene of New York's latest torch murder and there screamed a confession of guilt.

Peacock's outburst, in which the damning words came tumbling from his lips in incoherent haste, followed an all night grilling during which he had parried with studied nonchalance the questions of District Attorney Frank H. Coyle.

Baffled by Peacock's unrefined composure in the face of a sense soaked coat and pair of trousers which Coyle said fitted the accused man perfectly, the police this morning took Peacock to his Mt. Vernon apartment where the coat and trousers were found.

BLOOD SPOTS FOUND
Unable to "break" the prisoner there, despite the fact that Captain Lester Silverstein, head of the Vernon detectives, demanded that Peacock explain the presence of spots on the linoleum covering the apartment floor—"bloodstains," said Silverstein—authorities played their trump card and it proved a winning one.

Peacock was hustled into an automobile and driven to the scene where Joseph Selvey found the charred remnants of Mrs. Peacock.

Here, in the first gray dawn of dawn, Peacock was dragged limply from the car and to a spot where a funeral pyre of a human body had been built by the torch fiend.

IDENTIFIED BY MOTHER
Mrs. Peacock, whom her husband declared he had not seen since last March, was identified as the victim of the torch fiend by her mother, Mrs. Alphonse A. Heinzelman late yesterday after efforts of police to obtain identification of the seared body had failed.

Mrs. Heinzelman made the identification by means of a mole on the girl's right ankle.

Mrs. Frances Murray, 22, said to have been with Peacock on the night the murder was committed, was on her way to White Plains early today where she will be quizzed as to her knowledge of Peacock's movements on that night, police said.

CLOSING PLAN IS PROTESTED

Local Business Men Object to
Abolition of Columbus
Revenue Office.

Circleville business men, bankers and commercial organizations have sent in telegrams of protest to the Ohio senators at Washington and the treasury department against the proposed abolition of the Internal Revenue office at Columbus and the merging of its business with the office at Cincinnati.

The move is put forward as an economy measure by the treasury department but local business men do not favor it because it will make their contact with the revenue office much more expensive and costly in the way of added transport costs and time consumption.

The same tactics are being employed all over central Ohio. The argument is advanced that Columbus has a population of over 100,000, a situation far many others having between 50,000 and 100,000, and that three internal revenue districts are for the convenience of the citizens.

Professor Henry F. Lutz, of the department of Egyptology and Assyriology of the University of California, in a summary of the excavations, states in part:

"It is probable that all flood stories originated, not on account of this or that local event, but from some local catastrophe that happened in Babylon, which became the model for local stories of the flood in those countries to which it penetrated."

What Constitutes Obscenity? Jury At New York Says Dennett Book

Sons See Mother Convinced for Work to Help Them

TWELVE solemn men of Brooklyn guessed that Mary Ware Dennett's pamphlet, "The Sex Side of Life," would have that effect. The law's test for obscenity is whether the accused writings might corrupt the minds and morals of those into whose hands they might fall.

They reached their forty-two minute verdict of guilty without giving their attention or their thought to two tall young men who sat, quietly smouldering with anger, beside the bright-eyed, alert-minded little grandmother convicted of being a lewd and corrupt force.

For Mrs. Dennett, ever-rebellious daughter of a flinty intellectual New England house, placed her "sex primer" in the hands of one of those sons when he was fourteen and of the other when he was a boarding school boy of 11.

Now, grown to the easy self-reliance of manhood, both of them married, one the foster-father of two daughters, the other father of two children of his own, they were Mary Ware Dennett's best argument that a clearly-phrased and truthful explanation of the human sexual relationship is not corruptive of adolescent minds and morals.

It was written for them primarily, Mrs. Dennett found herself confronted by the usual problem of the parent, confronted by the curiosity of a child reaching adolescence and an awakening interest in the world.

Many were flagrantly false and inaccurate. Others, a few, were revealingly explicit in their purely professional treatment of the theme.

MRS. MARY WARE DENNETT

So she wrote her own version, flavored it with her own sanely sentimental honesty, and mailed that original typewritten manuscript to her elder son, Carleton.

At fourteen he and she recalled he was just reaching the stage of curiosity which many boys and girls come to much younger. Already he knew, from her instruction, the prefatory facts about propagation, but he had reached the age where he must know more—and where he would gain that knowledge, one way or another, in spite of any hindrance.

She mailed him the copy. His letters to her in the next month contained no comment on it. When he returned he suddenly recalled it one day. "Hey, mother," he hastily informed her, "that was all right." And that was the sum of his comment.

The mere existence of the pamphlet—of which 26,000 copies were distributed through or with the endorsement of the Y. M. C. A.'s, Y. W. C. A.'s, churches, social and child welfare organizations, and kindred agencies before the government indicted Mrs. Dennett for circulating obscene literature—was such an accepted fact in the minds of Carleton Dennett and his brother Devon, four years his junior, that neither could believe it when their mother was charged with being a criminal.

"I'd had a copy around with me, at school or at home, ever since I was a kid of eleven," Devon explained.

The two sons have been with their nerve-strained mother in all of her court appearances, although neither of them can afford the time or the financial loss.

What do they think of their mother's conviction? Of the jury which found her guilty? Of Federal Judge Warren B. Burrows from New London, who balked nearly every line of the defense prepared by Morris L. Ernst, the adroit defense counsel?

Of James E. Wilkinson, the Assistant United States Attorney, who thundered "that woman is trying to corrupt the pure boys and girls of America with her filth?"

Supreme Court May Decide Status of Home Brew on Local District Appeal

Possession In Residence Held
Illegal—Decision Has Reverse Precedent.

Is it lawful, under the Ohio statutes, to "possess" home brew in one's own private residence?

Strange to say, this particular question has never yet been finally passed on by the State Supreme court.

But the decision of the Court of Appeals of this district, in a Vinton county case, just received in Chillicothe by Louis M. Day, attorney for Edward Cooper, promises to bring that particular, promises before the Supreme court.

What adds special importance to this issue is that two opposite decisions have been handed down on it by higher courts. There are, therefore, conflicting court opinions which the Supreme court must settle as the final law of the state. This conflict is added to by the Appeals court of this district.

Incidentally, the opinion in this case was one of the last handed down by Judge W. H. Middleton and Blosser J. Mauck, in holding that possession of home brew in one's private residence is illegal.

The case in brief was as follows: Cooper had been found guilty in the Common Pleas court of Vinton county of violating the liquor possession law when he, through his attorney, Louis Day, admitted that he had 88 bottles of beer in his home; that he had made the beer and that it contained over one-half a percent of alcohol. He claimed, however, that he "possessed" the beer in his own residence, which, Attorney Day argued, was legal and had so been decided in a case in the Eighth District Court of Appeals in Cleveland in the Jeantnik case.

The state, on the contrary, claimed it had been decided in what is known as the Donahue case, also a Vinton-co case, that such possession was unlawful.

The Court of Appeals of this district sustained the lower court having found Cooper guilty of violating the law and fined him for it.

The way was distinctly left open, however, by Judges Middleton, Mauck and Blosser, for a hearing of the Cooper case in the State Supreme court, when they added to their decision the statement that, in view of conflicting court opinions on the issue, Cooper was entitled to a "certificate of conflict" and that, if he so elected, such a certification would be made.

Cooper's attorney, L. M. Day, said that his client would certainly elect to take such a certificate.

"CANDY JIM" VISITS CIRCEVILLE'S ELKS

The Circleville Elks are playing hosts to an important personage. This guest is no other than James Antill of Bedford, Va., but also a former resident of this city. Everyone will remember Mr. Antill, known to many as "Daddy Jim," and to others as "Candy Jim."

He is a now a resident of the beautiful Elks home in Bedford, and he considers that his home, although Circleville is sorry to hear that "Jim" really is homesick for Bedford, his friends like to think of his happiness there.

FARM HOME BURNED

Mumbles Details of Crime At
Fire Scene After Offering
To Help Police.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 30.—The aplomb and self-assurance which characterized Earl Francis Peacock when he voluntarily surrendered to authorities and offered to "help" them solve the slaying of his young wife, Mrs. Dorothy Heinzelman Peacock, gave way to hysterical babbling today when the boy-husband was led to the scene of New York's latest torch murder and there screamed a confession of guilt.

Peacock's outburst, in which the damning words came tumbling from his lips in incoherent haste, followed an all night grilling during which he had parried with studied nonchalance the questions of District Attorney Frank H. Coyne. Baffled by Peacock's unruffled composure in the face of a kerosene soaked coat and pair of trousers which Coyne said fitted the accused man perfectly, the police this morning took Peacock to his Mt. Vernon apartment where the coat and trousers were found.

BLOOD SPOTS FOUND
Unable to "break" the prisoner there, despite the fact that Captain Lester Silverstein, head of Mt. Vernon detectives, demanded that Peacock explain the presence of spots on the linoleum covered apartment floor — "bloodstains," said Silverstein—authorities played their trump card and it proved a winning one.

Peacock was hustled into an automobile and driven to Scarsdale where Joseph Selvey found the charred remnants of Mrs. Peacock's Here in the first grey light of dawn, Peacock was dragged unwillingly from the car and to the spot where a funeral pyre of a human body had been built by the torch fiend.

IDENTIFIED BY MOTHER

Mrs. Peacock, whom her husband declared he had not seen since last March, was identified as the victim of the torch fiend by her mother. Mrs. Alphonse A. Heinzelman late yesterday after efforts of police to obtain identification of the seared body had failed. Mrs. Heinzelman made the identification by means of a mole on the girl's right ankle.

Mrs. Frances Murray, 22, said to have been with Peacock on the night the murder was committed, was on her way to White Plains early today where she will be quizzed as to her knowledge of Peacock's movements on that night, police said.

CLOSING PLAN IS PROTESTED

Local Business Men Object to
Abolition of Columbus
Revenue Office.

Circleville business men, bankers and commercial organizations have sent in telegrams of protest to the Ohio senators at Washington and the treasury department against the proposed abolition of the Internal Revenue office at Columbus and the merging of its business with the office at Cincinnati.

The move is put forward as an economy measure by the treasury department but local business men do not favor it because it will make their contact with the revenue office much more expensive and costly in the way of added transport costs and time consumption.

The same tactics are being employed all over central Ohio. The argument is advanced that Ohio, with six cities of over 100,000 population and many others ranging between 30,000 and 100,000 is entitled to three internal revenue district offices for the convenience of the citizens.

BRIDE GETS TRIP

LANCASTER, O., April 30.—Downtown Lancaster was treated to an unusual sight yesterday when William Helver, 21, band clerk, took his bride on an hour for a ride in a wheel barrow. The downtown crowds stopped to watch, while friends of the newly-weds cheered the couple on.

What a Difference Clean-Up and Paint-Up means to Main Street

Probably You Are To Blame; Burn Up Trash

You not only endanger your own life and property but the homes and lives of your neighbors when you yield to neglect in the matter of cleaning up trash and fire-traps which so surely collect around the home if you are not on guard every moment.

The only way to go about it is to tackle the job with your sleeves rolled up and a grim determination not to stop until the house and grounds are absolutely clear of such menaces. Teach children not to play with matches—be careful of bonfires, clean out rubbish from old boxes and cans from beneath basement steps. Everything inflammable should go—and go quickly. The annual loss from avoidable fires in America is appalling. You would scarcely believe the figures if they were set down. But they are inexorably true, none the less. Do your share to cut down that deadly mass of fire statistics.

DEMONSTRATE VARIOUS FEED COMBINATIONS

Different Systems of Using Protein Supplements Shown To Hog Raisers.

By H. S. Lewis

Pickaway-co Farm Agent

Eleven lots of eight pigs each were on exhibit during the livestock day program held in Columbus recently. These different lots were arranged to demonstrate comparative efficiency of various combinations of feed and protein supplements in the production of pork.

Lots 1 - 2 were fed the same ration except fish meal was used in place of tankage as a protein supplement. The fish meal lot had an average daily gain of 1.11 lbs while the tankage lot had .99. The feed cost per hundred pounds of gain in the fish meal lot was $7.75 while the tankage lot cost $8.45. Fish meal proved superior to tankage in this test. It has provided more rapid and cheaper gains and seems to make up for the deficiencies in home grown grains to a better advantage than tankage.

In two other lots of shoats the corn, tankage, oil meal and alfalfa combination supplemented by minerals proved very efficient. The average daily gain was 1.08 and the feed cost was $7.95.

Lots 7 - 8 were used to check the merits in grinding oats. The ration in lot 7 was, Whole oats 3.71, Tankage .13, ground Alfalfa .12, mineral .06. In lot 8 it was Ground oats 3.53, tankage .13, ground alfalfa .11, mineral .06. The average daily gain on the whole oats lot was .66 while the average daily gain on the ground oats lot was .63. The feed cost per hundred pounds gain showed

HERE are two sides of a street and the cartoon is intended as an object lesson in civic pride. There is so much shopping about by people in motor cars that what OTHERS think of our business section is quite as important—or more so, than WE think who live here and shop here.

Business houses should be kept painted in exactly the same manner that homes are painted. Signs should be fresh, bright and clean, glass in windows glistening, pavements in good order, and trees, if there are any, neatly trimmed. The modern store interior is beautiful, as a rule. We have gotten away from the cracker-barrel era of merchandising, but merchants do not always pay attention to the exteriors of their places of business, in the rush and bustle of the day.

an advantage of 78 cents in favor of the whole oats ration.

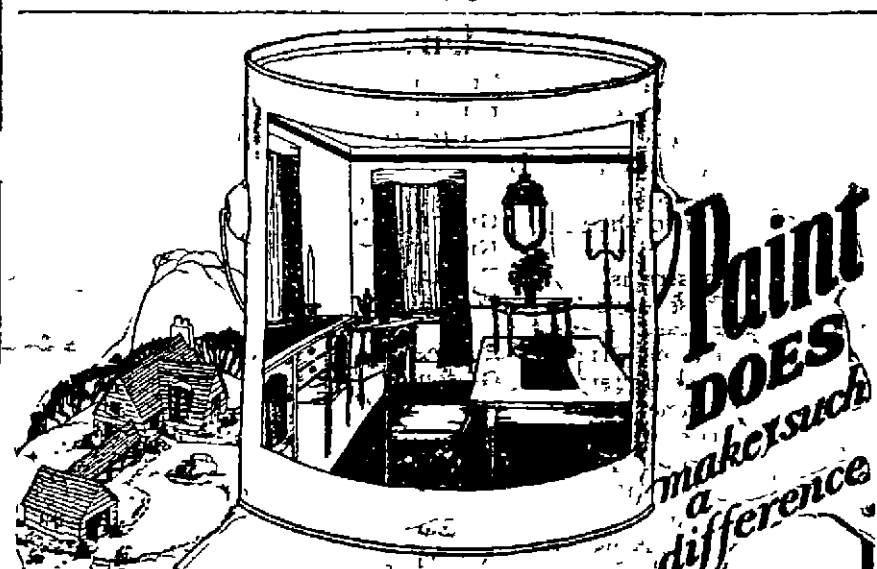

Lots 9 - 10 where corn was added to the ration showed that it did not pay to grind oats for shoats. If oats are to be used in hog rations they should not exceed one-third of the grain mixture and one-fourth of the grain mixture would be preferable. These lots showing that it is not profitable to grind oats for shoats, are substantiated by the findings of similar comparisons at both Iowa and Minnesota Experiment stations.

Pickaway-co farmers who have good clover at their command, have an opportunity now to feed ear corn on clover supplementing the ear corn ration with the combination of tankage and oil meal as the protein supplement and a mineral supplement—consisting of 50 pounds of ground lime stone; 50 pounds of steamed bone meal and 5 pounds of salt. The tankage and oil meal may be used at the rate of two parts of tankage and oil meal combination fifty percent of each. Corn, clover and this tankage and mineral supplement, afford the most economic means of making pork.

Ideal Medicine Man

"My idea of a good doctor," says Grandma Gravel in Farm and Fireside, "is one who takes pains and gives none."

It is far too easy to forget just what wonders are accomplished with paint, varnish, enamel, stain and lacquer, inside and outside the home.

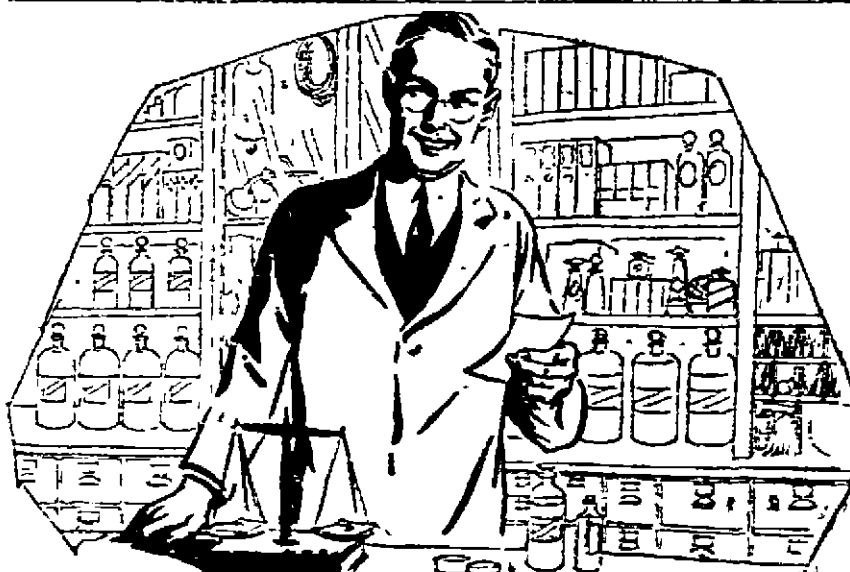

In a general sort of way everyone realizes that painting does make an improvement, but not until the house appears in its new dress, or rooms are redecorated, is the real truth brought home to us.

Incubation Long Known

Artificial incubation was successfully practiced in very ancient times in Egypt and China, and probably other countries. Jean-mur, the eminent French physicist, used successfully a very crude form of incubator. The first application for a patent on an incubator in the United States was in 1847. Practical success with modern incubators may be said to date from the Paris exposition of 1877, at which Roullier and Arnoult exhibited a hydro-incubator.

Age Does Not Give Value

The fact that a violin is old does not necessarily mean that from an intrinsic standpoint it is more valuable than a newer one. Some of the recently made violins have such exquisite tone that they can scarcely be identified when compared with the work of the old violin makers.

BE A BOOSTER FOR "CLEAN-UP" WEEK IN CITY

Any town is made up of two kinds of men—the "Boosters" and the "Do-Nothings." The former class must shoulder all responsibility for the growth and necessary progress of the community. They do more than their share, which is not quite just, do you think?

Mr. "Do-Nothing's" creed is: "Let well enough alone. Costs too much money to be Cleaning-Up and Painting-Up all the while. Let the other chap do it—I'm busy earning a livin'."

Mr. Booster says: "I want my town to grow and be popular. It can't do either if it is a neglected town, with shabby, unpainted houses and down-at-the-heels gardens and grounds. My own home and my place of business will be kept always in perfect repair, even though it may mean personal denial in some other way. By doing this I help myself by helping my city."

Which man has the right idea?

Juror Kept Tab

In a trial at Cincinnati, one of the jurors kept track of the evidence with toothpicks. When the defense scored a point he would put a toothpick in one pocket and when the state scored a point he would put a toothpick in another pocket. There were so many toothpicks in the second pocket that this juror voted for conviction at once.

Bulgaria Land of Roses

The production of attar of roses ranks as the fourth leading product in the export trade of Bulgaria and in shipments to the United States it is the principal item. Roses were first cultivated around the valley of Tundja at Kazanlik, and then spread to the valley of Struma, in the vicinity of Karlovo, on the south.

The town has joined the big parade of Civic Pride. Most of us are in the long line, doing our bit, smilingly and well. We are tidying up our yards, we are planting flowers, we are mending things, patching things, fixing things, painting up, varnishing up, lacquering up, cleaning up and waxing up, until our homes shimmer and shine as if new once more. And why not? It is for our good and the good of our community. We want a town that all the neighboring towns will envy, don't we? We want a town that will attract desirable homesteaders and important industries. Are you in step? Or are you one of those who say: "Oh, what does it matter? I'm too busy now. TAKE PRECAUTIONS AGAINST RINGWORM

Holiday Season Brings with It the Danger of Infection Through Use of Public Bath-Houses and Dressing-Rooms—Keep Feet Covered.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WITHIN a short time vacations will be in order. Week-ends at the seashore will be enjoyed. I regard the vacation season with some degree of anxiety. It is a time when there is a let-down from the ordinary rules of living. There is a temptation to indulge in all sorts of excesses.

He is a wise man who gives thought to the fundamental things at this season. He may imagine he is taking these outings for the sake of health. As a matter of fact, he may be subjecting himself to conditions which really hazard health.

When we were children we regarded it a great lark if we could go without shoes and stockings. When I was a wee lad I wore them so little in Summer that it was a real agony to have to put on shoes.

Modern life has brought new dangers. With the increased use of swimming pools, dressing rooms in golf clubs and the frequent trips to the seashore have come skin diseases which were formerly quite uncommon.

One of the most commonly met skin troubles today is ringworm in one form or another. Millions of our people have it.

New I beg of you not to get scared. I am not telling you about something as terrible as smallpox, or even the old-fashioned itch. The disease in question is annoying, but it does not last long, nor is it serious in its effects. It is a disagreeable, but, happily, a quickly healing eruption of the skin.

Ringworm is a purely local infectious disease of the skin, hair or nails. There are several varieties. When it attacks the finger nails or toenails it is a stubborn condition and results in considerable deformity. Sometimes it attacks the scalp, leaving bald patches.

Quoting the U. S. Public Health Service, the disease may be described as follows: "In its mildest form, the disease exists as either a little cracking or a little swelling between the toes. In many instances the so-called 'soft corn' is really due entirely to infection with ringworm parasites. . . . Any portion of the hands or feet may show one of these eruptions. Rarely they may extend as high as the elbow or knee. When the blisters break, fluid always escapes to the surface and there is a wet oozing surface that usually becomes covered with scabs. Itching is frequently intense."

The family doctor will have no difficulty in giving relief. But it is not in the cure of the disease I am interested today; it is in the prevention. Everybody must observe great care in all matters relating to the personal toilet in public places.

ONE SCENE COSTS $1000
D. W. Griffith is by no means a spendthrift, yet he insists that one of the most economical expenditures made on "Lady of the Pavements," the current attraction at the Cliftona theatre, was giving Ned Mann a thousand dollars for a single scene.

Mann, who is an "effects director," otherwise known as a trick cameraman, worked eighteen solid hours and ran his film through a special camera thirty-six times to make a sequence seventy-five feet in length.

The cost of the sequence, including salaries of stars, electrical current and rental on "properties" was in excess of fifteen thousand dollars.

William Boyd, Jetta Goudal, Lupe Velez, George Fawcett, Albert Conti, William Bakewell and Henry Armetta are in the cast of "Lady of the Pavements," a story laid in the period of Napoleon the Third.

Tad's big Uncle Toms Cabin show is coming to Circleville under a big water proof tent, Wednesday Evening, May 1st.

This company is considered to be the best and largest on the road today, not a fly by night organization, but a company representing a cash investment of $20,000, carrying a company of 35 people, all new and special scenery for each and every act of the play. Concert band and orchestra. Pack of Siberian bloodhounds. Big circus calliope. Our own big electric light plant, which adds to developing such scenes as Uncle Toms Cabin situated on the banks of the Ohio river, with the snow covered grounds and cabin. The famous Ohio river by moon - light, with Eliza crossing the ice pursued by the fierce man eating blood hounds. The death of Little Eva. The sale of Uncle Tom to the mean slave trader, Simon Legree. The death of Uncle Tom and Little Eva in the Gates of Heaven. Remember, it is all under one big tent.

Land Hurt by Dam

The bottomland of Egypt is not as fertile as it was before Assuan dam was built. The mud that was carried down the Nile by natural flooding is stopped by the dam. It settles back of the dam, and the clear water which irrigates this land below lacks the fertilizing element.

How human it is to kowtow low to the great god "I'll do it tomorrow!" We promised to do over those neglected rooms, we promised to repaint the house, we said that we would fix up the garden, mend the fences, build trellises, and make our little habitation the most attractive on our street. But we forget or we put off. Every day we do this we are robbing ourselves of that greater satisfaction which comes with possessing and living in a beautiful home. And then there is our obligation to our neighbors, our street and our community.

Clean Up and Paint Up

What a Difference Clean-Up and Paint-Up means to Main Street

Probably You Are To Blame; Burn Up Trash

You not only endanger your own life and property but the homes and lives of your neighbors when you live to neglect in the matter of cleaning up trash and fire-traps which so surely collect around the home if you are not on guard every moment.

The only way to go about it is to tackle the job with your sleeves rolled up and a grim determination not to stop until the house and grounds are absolutely clear of such menaces.

Teach children not to play with matches—be careful of bonfires, clean out rubbish from old boxes and cans from beneath basement steps. Everything inflammable should go—and go quickly. The annual loss from avoidable fires in America is appalling. You would scarcely believe the figures if they were set down. But they are inexorably true, none the less. Do your share to cut down that deadly mass of fire statistics.

DEMONSTRATE VARIOUS FEED COMBINATIONS

Different Systems of Using Protein Supplements Shown To Hog Raisers.

By H. S. Lewis
Pickaway-co Farm Agent

Eleven lots of eight pigs each were on exhibit during the livestock day program held in Columbus recently. These different lots were arranged to demonstrate comparative efficiency of various combinations of feed and protein supplements in the production of pork.

Lots 1 - 2 were fed the same ration except fish meal was used in place of tankage as a protein supplement. The fish meal lot had an average daily gain of 1.11 lbs. while the tankage lot had .99. The feed cost per hundred pounds of gain in the fish meal lot was $7.75 while the tankage lot cost $8.45. Fish meal proved superior to tankage in this test. It has provided more rapid and cheaper gains and seems to make up for the deficiencies in home grown grains to a better advantage than tankage.

In two other lots of shoats the corn, tankage, oil meal and alfalfa combination supplemented by minerals proved very efficient. The average daily gain was 1.08 and the feed cost was $7.95.

Lots 7 - 8 were used to check the merits in grinding oats. The ration in lot 7 was, Whole oats 3.71, Tankage .13, ground Alfalfa .12, mineral .06. In lot 8 it was Ground oats 3.53, tankage .13, ground alfalfa .11, mineral .06. The average daily gain on the whole oats lot was .66 while the average daily gain on the ground oats lot was .63. The feed cost per hundred pounds gain showed

HERE are two sides of a street and the cartoon is intended as an object lesson in civic pride. There is so much shopping about by people in motor cars that what OTHERS think of our business section is quite as important—or more so, than WE think who live here and shop here.

Business houses should be kept painted in exactly the same manner that homes are painted. Signs should be fresh, bright and clean, glass in windows glistening, pavements in good order, and trees, if there are any, neatly trimmed. The modern store interior is beautiful, as a rule. We have gotten away from the cracker-barrel era of merchandising, but merchants do not always pay attention to the exteriors of their places of business, in the rush and bustle of the day.

an advantage of 78 cents in favor of the whole oats ration.

Lots 9 - 10 where corn was added to the ration showed that it did not pay to grind oats for shoats. If oats are to be used in hog rations they should not exceed one-third of the grain mixture and one-fourth of the grain mixture would be preferable. These lots showing that it is not profitable to grind oats for shoats, are substantiated by the findings of similar comparisons at both Iowa and Minnesota Experiment stations.

Pickaway-co farmers who have good clover at their command, have an opportunity now to feed ear corn on clover supplementing the ear corn ration with the combination of tankage and oil meal as the protein supplement and a mineral supplement consisting of 50 pounds of ground lime stone; 50 pounds of steamed bone meal and 5 pounds of salt. The tankage and oil meal may be used at the rate of two parts of tankage and oil meal combination fifty percent of each. Corn, clover and this tankage and mineral supplement, afford the most economic means of making pork.

Ideal Medicine Man

"My idea of a good doctor," says Grandma Gravel in Farm and Fireside, "is one who takes pains and gives none."

Paint DOES make such a difference

It is far too easy to forget just what wonders are accomplished with paint, varnish, enamel, stain and lacquer, inside and outside the home.

In a general sort of way everyone realizes that painting does make an improvement, but not until the house appears in its new dress, or rooms are re-decorated, is the real truth brought home to us.

Are you 'Out of Step'?

The town has joined the big parade of Civic Pride. Most of us are in the long line, doing our bit, smilingly and well. We are tidying up our yards, we are planting flowers, we are mending things, patching things, fixing things, painting up, varnishing up, lacquering up, cleaning up and waxing up, until our homes shimmer and shine as if new once more. And why not? It is for our good and the good of our community. We want a town that all the neighboring towns will envy, don't we? We want a town that will attract desirable homesteaders and important industries. Are you in step? Or are you one of those who say: "Oh, what does it matter? I'm too busy now. Things are well enough as they stand?"

The Circleville Chamber of Commerce.

Says your DRUGGIST

"I can be of material help to you in carrying out all the work connected with this Clean Up and Paint Up Campaign. You will want insecticides. You will need disinfectants. A modern drug store carries many, many things which enter into the spirit of this splendid crusade. And, being ourselves in sympathy with the civic-pride movement, we are only too willing to assist you in any way that lies within our power."

BE A BOOSTER FOR "CLEAN-UP" WEEK IN CITY

Any town is made up of two kinds of men—the "Boosters" and the "Do-Nothings." The former class must shoulder all responsibility for the growth and necessary progress of the community. They do more than their share, which is not quite just, do you think?

Mr. "Do-Nothings" creed is: "Let well enough alone. Costs too much money to be Cleaning-Up and Painting-Up all the while. Let the other chap do it—I'm busy earnin' a livin'."

Mr. Booster says: "I want my town to grow and be popular. It can't do either if it is a neglected town, with shabby, unpainted houses and down-at-the-heels gardens and grounds. My own home and my place of business will be kept always in perfect repair, even though it may mean personal denial in some other way. By doing this I help myself by helping my city."

Which man has the right idea?

Juror Kept Tab

In a trial at Cincinnati, one of the jurors kept track of the evidence with toothpicks. When the defense scored a point he would put a toothpick in one pocket and when the state scored a point he would put a toothpick in another pocket. There were so many toothpicks in the second pocket that this juror voted for conviction at once.

Bulgaria Land of Roses

The production of attar of roses ranks as the fourth leading product in the export trade of Bulgaria and in shipments to the United States it is the principal item. Roses were first cultivated around the valley of Tundja at Kazanlik, and then spread to the valley of Strlema, in the vicinity of Karlovo, on the south.

Addressing President

The President of the United States is usually spoken to as "Mr. President," in writing to him, "My dear Mr. President" is good usage, and so is "Dear Mr. President."

BIBLE THOUGHT

THERE IS NONE OTHER—Who is God like unto thee, that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? he retaineth not his anger forever, because he delighteth in mercy.—Micah 7:18.

PRAYER—"God are Thy works of praise, O God of boundless might."

PROFIT THROUGH SERVICE

When merchants build new stores, add additional sales space, install new fixtures, improve their show windows, augment their sales forces, replenish their stock with the best and newest, it is for the public. Of course they are in business for the purpose of making a living, but to make that living they must first give service, so their first objective is always "to serve and please."

"Fair exchange is no robbery" is a business phrase which has been handed down from generation to generation and now seems to have acquired immortality. The laborer exchanges his labor for his wage. The capitalist exchanges his money for his interest. The manufacturer exchanges his product for his cost of production plus profit, the professional man exchanges his services for his fees or his salary, the store keeper exchanges his goods for cost plus service charge. Everybody is in business for himself by being in business for some one else. Like the public official, the merchant is in business for society and therefore every member of that society is his employer, his boss.

One of the compensations of business is that public recognition and appreciation come to none sooner than to the businessman who really serves. A flourishing trade is synonymous with public trust and confidence. Service must ever precede success in business.

VARIATION IS SPICE

One may travel up and down a city and find no two houses exactly alike unless they be members of a row of dwellings.

The different makes and models of automobiles number into the hundreds.

Women insist that their dresses, coats and hats be exclusive, but neither will two men be found in identical habilitment.

What is true of houses, automobiles and clothes is also true of breakfast foods, furniture, shoes and virtually all of men's possessions.

The reason is obvious. No two people have identical tastes. That which one finds attractive repels another. The person whose discernment you criticize probably thinks even less of yours.

Life would be a monotonous existence but for this conflict of tastes. Nothing bores like uniformity. What interest would the world hold for humanity if every house was built alike, if the choice of the ten million was good enough for the world, if the wardrobe of the modern woman had as little variation as Eve's, if what one wanted, everybody wanted?

If all humanity was of the same opinion on all things, the free-for-all argument would be as extinct as the Roc, but why live if you can't argue?

Expert or Nothing

A sketch in a theatrical weekly calls the subject an "expert lion tamer." We don't suppose there is anything, in which mediocrity shows up quicker than in lion taming.

WILL THAT BLOTTER DO THE WORK?

Impatient Griselda

by Dorothy Scarborough

CHAPTER LXXVIII.
ON Christmas morning Guinn and Irene had a cablegram from Rome.

Love and Christmas wishes to all of you. Lilith and Dan.

Later a letter came from Lilith:

"It was so good of you to write to us. We didn't deserve it, at least I didn't. I was to blame for the whole thing, and I don't see how you can forgive me."

After that it was easier to write—though it was never really easy. Guinn sent a letter each week, and Irene now and then, when she would get to thinking of how Lilith needed counsel and love. What was the child suffering—not only separated from the man she loved, but married, in that fashion, to a man she didn't love?

Tina shut herself all day in her room, at her drawing. Or was she drawing?

Sometimes her father could persuade her to go out in the car with him and wait while he made pastoral visits, and sometimes Irene coaxed her to go on an errand with her, but she shrank from seeing people. She went to church after a few weeks, and sat like a marble figure in the pew, but she stole away before the close of the service, to avoid the greeting of the members. She would go out with Will Lundy oftener than with either of her parents.

For months she would not see her friends when they came to the house, nor go out with them, but gradually she relaxed her frozen reserve and took up her friendships again, but her old sparkling spontaneity was gone. She was like a young widow, not garbed in black, but mantled in reserve that forbade sympathy.

Miss Mattie said to Irene one day, "Ain't it pitiful to watch that child? A grief where you can put flowers on its grave and cry respectable is a sight more comforting."

"Yes, that's true," said Irene. "But some griefs are like gallstones. Takes outside aid to get rid of 'em. I hope she falls in love with somebody else," said Miss Mattie. "And I ain't heard you laugh in a coon's age. I never thought nothing could 'a' pulled you down like this. Look like you'd had yaller jaundice."

"I'll get over it," said Irene. "Will Lundy says I'm so healthy I'll have to be knocked on the head when Judgment Day comes."

Abby Whitaker spoke up. "Yes, Will Lundy comes often to keep you—and your family—well, I understand."

Irene opened her eyes in surprise. "Yes, he's a good friend."

Abby rose and went off. "What's biting her now?" snapped Miss Mattie. "Still mad because the preacher married you instead of her?"

"That's an old grievance," said Irene.

Legends of "True Cross"

There is no authentic information as to the composition of the cross on which Jesus was crucified. Legends on the subject are legion. The alleged fragments of the cross preserved as sacred relics are composed of pine. According to one legend, the true cross was made of four kinds of wood—palm, olive, cedar and cypress—representing the four quarters of the globe. A more poetic legend says the cross was made of aspen, supposed to account for the almost constant quivering of the leaves of that species—Pathfinder magazine.

Heaven's Dearest Gifts
Hearts that feel, and eyes that smile are the dearest gifts that heaven supplies.—Moore.

"Yes, but hate lasts longer'n love sometimes, I've noticed . . ."

A year and a half of such remembrances passed before Irene's mind as she weeded and planted in her garden that March morning—bits of dialogue, swift little pictures, scenes and situations—Tina's trouble all mixed up with church problems, Guinn's spell of grippie, Pat's tonsil operation, the boys' absence at college, their recklessness in wearing out clothes, Sheba's temperament, Will Lundy's unfailing goodness. What would they all have done in that hard time, but for him? He could get closer to Tina than anybody else. Did she really love him better than she did her father? . . .

Lilith's letters had come from Egypt, from India, from Japan, from Honolulu, telling of the pagentry they passed. Guinn took enormous pleasure from those epistles that gave such descriptions of the places they visited, the experiences they had, and he carried each one around in his pocket till the next one arrived, so that he could read extracts from it to favored intimates. Couldn't he see, poor dear, that she filled her letters with travel stuff to keep from showing herself that she gave in detail the things they saw and heard in order that she might say nothing of what they were feeling? And what were they feeling, those two wandering children? Travel couldn't last forever. What would be the end of it?

It was always Lilith who wrote, never Dan.

Now and again Irene had tried to speak of Lilith and Dan to Tina, tried to quote from a letter, thinking it would be easier if the child could break through her frozen reserve and discuss the matter. But always one look of hurt and reproach from the brown eyes had been enough to stop the mother's tongue. Tina would retreat to some fastness of the spirit, remote, inaccessible.

Yet Tina had regained serenity and poise, and a quiet dignity about her that her mother could not help admiring, however much she longed for the winsome gaiety of the little girl that used to be. This woman daughter, unapproachable, with her hard-won calm, her even-tempered courtesy, couldn't make up for the loss of the laughing sprite, with charm for eye and heart alike, that Tina had been. This changeling was more of a woman than her mother was.

She had made progress with her art, and Will Lundy vowed she must go to New York next winter. He would give her training—New York, and then Paris, or Rome, or wherever she wished. "Tina is my girl," he often said. "Haven't I got a right to have some fun out of my money? The more of it she spends the better I'll like it."

And Tina was willing to take his money instead of her father's, so that in September she was going to New York.

As Irene weeded her flower bed, she visioned her in New York, had glimpses of her pictures hung in galleries, exhibited in salons. But no pictures in salons, no fame in art collections would ever make up to her Tina for the death of her love.

A mist came over the mother's eyes as she gazed at the pansies in the bed, purple and yellow and brown, like so many baby faces smiling up at her. . . . She had thought by this time she'd be holding Tina's baby in her arms!

The postman was coming up the street. She rose from her cramped knees and went to the gate to meet him, with grubby hand outstretched for the letters.

"Always in a hurry to see me in these days, aren't you?" he asked.

"Yes, with two boys at college that don't write home as often as they should. Why doesn't the postal department have some regulation about boys that forget to send letters to their mothers every few days?"

She found a seat in the shade of a tree, to see about the letters. None from the boys this time, but one from Lilith for her. It was postmarked San Francisco. San Francisco!

Dear Mother:
You see, we're back in America. We're tired of traveling about, sick of boats and trains and hotels. We want to come home.

Mother, I'm going to have a baby in a couple of months or less, and I'm scared and homesick! I've been told that every man longs for a son, and so I hope this will be a son for Dan.

I know I haven't any right to ask it, but would you let my baby be born at home under your roof? I used to hate the parsonage, but now I feel it would be a great blessing if my little son could be able to know that he was born there.

But if you'd rather not, just say so and Dan and I will settle down somewhere else. But you always help people when they need it. Mother, your forgiveness seems like the love of God to me. Devotedly, LILITH.

She sat for a long time on the garden bench, rereading the letter. The bed of pansies she had just planted swam before her eyes, baby faces, soft and crinkled, and appealing. . . . But there was Tina! What could she do to shield her from further hurt? Life was such a tangle. Guinn would be happy to have Lilith at home again—he would love Lilith's baby with his whole heart. . . . But Tina? She must think this thing through, must make her plans, before she spoke to anyone.

What Are You Worth?

It is not easy to determine the value of a man. Perhaps it is best to say that we are worth as much as we put into a "going concern" as much spirit and sympathy and service.—Grove Patterson, in the Mobile Register.

Useless Information

A motorist usually has the same opinion of a pedestrian's walking that the pedestrian has of the motorist's driving.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"King's English"

It is the king's English just as it is the king's army, the king's navy and the king's country. Everything in the tight little isle is subject to him, in ti-ory at least. The expression is proverbial. It is sometimes credited to Shakespeare because of his use of it in the first act of "The Merry Wives of Windsor," but it antedates him.

Motor Car Oddly Named

Some fanciful names were given many of the early makes of motor cars. A few of them, long out of the picture, were Autodynamo, in 1901; Buckmobile, in 1903; Brownicker, in 1908; Ben Hur, in 1917; Comet, in 1908; Dixie Flyer, in 1917; Everybody's, in 1908; Gasmobile, in 1901; Great Smith, in 1911; Gearless, in 1920; Mercury, in 1904; Motorette, in 1911; Mighty Michigan, in 1913; U. S. Long Distance, in 1903, and Vogue in 1921.

BIBLE THOUGHT
THERE'S IS NONE OTHER—Who is God like unto thee, that pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of the remnant of his heritage? he retaineth not his anger forever, because he delighteth in mercy.—Micah 7:18.
PRAYER—"God are Thy works of praise, O God of boundless might."

When merchants build new stores, add additional sales space, install new fixtures, improve their show windows, augment their sales forces, replenish their stock with the best and newest, it is for the public. Of course they are in business for the purpose of making a living, but to make that living they must first give service, so their first objective is always "to serve and please."

"Fair exchange is no robbery" is a business phrase which has been handed down from generation to generation and now seems to have acquired immortality. The laborer exchanges his labor for his wage. The capitalist exchanges his money for his interest. The manufacturer exchanges his product for his cost of production plus profit, the professional man exchanges his services for his fees or his salary, the store keeper exchanges his goods for cost plus service charge. Everybody is in business for himself by being in business for some one else. Like the public official, the merchant is in business for society and therefore every member of that society is his employer, his boss.

One of the compensations of business is that public recognition and appreciation come to none sooner than to the businessman who really serves. A flourishing trade is synonymous with public trust, and confidence. Service must ever precede success in business.

VARIATION IS SPICE
One may travel up and down a city and find no two houses exactly alike unless they are members of a row of dwellings.
The different makes and models of automobiles number into the hundreds.
Women insist that their dresses, coats and hats be exclusive, but neither will two men be found in identical habilliment.

What is true of houses, automobiles and clothes is also true of breakfast foods, furniture, shoes and virtually all of men's possessions.
The reason is obvious. No two people have identical tastes. That which one finds attractive repels another. The person whose discernment you criticize probably thinks even less of yours.

Life would be a monotonous existence but for this conflict of tastes. Nothing bores like uniformity. What interest would the world hold for humanity if every house was built alike, if the choice of the ten million was good enough for the world, if the wardrobe of the modern woman had as little variation as Eve's, if what one wanted, everybody wanted?

If all humanity was of the same opinion on all things, the free-for-all argument would be as extinct as the Roc, but why live if you can't argue?

Expert or Nothing
A sketch in a theatrical weekly calls the subject an "expert lion tamer." We don't suppose there is anything in which mediocrity shows up quicker than in lion taming.

CHAPTER LXXXVIII.
ON Christmas morning Guinn and Irene had a cablegram from Rome.
Love and Christmas wishes to all of you. Lilith and Dan.
Later a letter came from Lilith:
"It was so good of you to write to us. We didn't deserve it, at least I didn't. I was to blame for the whole thing, and I don't see how you can forgive me."
After that it was easier to write though it was never really easy. Guinn sent a letter each week, and Irene now and then, when she would get to thinking of how Lilith needed counsel and love. What was the child suffering—not only separated from the man she loved, but married, in that fashion, to a man she didn't love?
Tina shut herself all day in her room, at her drawing. Or was she drawing?
Sometimes her father could persuade her to go out in the car with him and wait while he made pastoral visits, and sometimes Irene coaxed her to go on an errand with her, but she shrank from seeing people. She went to church after a few weeks, and sat like a marble figure in the pew, but she stole away before the close of the service, to avoid the greeting of the members. She would go out with Will Lundy oftener than with either of her parents.
For months she would not see her friends when they came to the house, nor go out with them, but gradually she relaxed her frozen reserve and took up her friendships again, but her old sparkling spontaneity was gone. She was like a young widow, not garbed in black, but mantled in reserve that forbade sympathy.
Miss Mattie said to Irene one day, "Ain't it pitiful to watch that child? A crier where you can put flowers on its grave and cry respectable is a sight more comforting."
"Yes, that's true," said Irene. "But some griefs are like gall-trees. Takes outside aid to get rid of 'em. I hope she falls in love with somebody else," said Miss Mattie. "And I ain't heard you laugh in a coon's age. I never thought nothing could 'a pulled you down like this. Look like you'd had valter jaundice."
"I'll get over it," said Irene. "Will Lundy says I'm so healthy I'll have to be knocked on the head when Judgment Day comes."
Abby Waitaker spoke up. "Yes, Will Lundy comes often to keep you—and your family—well, I understand."
Irene opened her eyes in surprise. "Yes, he's a good friend."
"What's his job, now?"
"He's a lawyer," said Miss Mattie. "Said he was married, but he ain't married yet."
"That's an old grievance," said Irene.
Legends of "True Cross"
There is much truth in the tradition that the cross on which Jesus was crucified is now in the custody of the Emperor of the East. The alleged fragments of the cross preserved in various parts of the world are composed of pine. According to one legend, the true cross was made of olive wood and was used by Jesus in the last quarter of the 1st century. A large pine tree in the Holy Land was made of a pine sapling and was used for the cross on which Jesus died. The pine tree is now in the custody of the Emperor of the East.
Hilar Car Oddly Named
Some fanciful names were given many of the early makes of motor cars. A few of them, long out of the picture, were Amphidromic, in 1901; Buckminster, in 1902; Brown Jockey, in 1903; Dan Hen, in 1904; Daniel, in 1905; Little Hen, in 1906; Everybody, in 1907; Gus mobile, in 1908; Great Spain, in 1909; Goodness, in 1910; Memory, in 1911; Monocycle, in 1912; Mighty Michigan, in 1913; Little Hen, in 1914; and Y. G. in 1915.
"King's English"
It is the king's English just as it is the king's army, the king's navy and the king's country. Everything in the high tide isle is subject to him, in theory at least. The expression is proverbial. It is sometimes credited to Shakespeare because of his use of it in the first act of "The Merry Wives of Windsor," but it antedates him.

Fountain Gushes Wine
In the town of Marino in the Roman Campagna there is a fountain which occasionally flows with wine for an hour in the vintage season of each year the thirsty may freely fill their pitchers.
The custom of free wine is an old one. In the market place near by stands a gigantic basket filled with clusters of grapes, its diameter almost as great as that of a small town gas tank. The basket belongs to the town, and whatever of its contents is left is made into wine for the free fountain in the following year. Great crowds gather for the celebration.

NOTICE

Difference in Rainfall
There is uncertainty about what constitutes a day's rainfall. At London, for example, popularly regarded as a wet place, it seems that the best the clouds ever have done was 3.12 inches of rain in 24 hours in France, however, there was a shower at Jozeux which checked out at 21.17 inches in the same time. At Genoa, the best rain was 30 inches for a days job. Gibraltar has a record of 27 inches and it took 26 hours to get down. In the South hills, India the record rainfall is 80 inches a day for five consecutive days. This foots up at 15,000 tons on every acre.

HOYT'S COMPOUND GREATEST EVER

Clarksburg Lady Calls It Wonderful: Describes Its Action.

The great medicine, known as the HOYT'S COMPOUND has now become a veritable sensation here in Circleville and at the present time larger crowds than ever before are flocking in daily to the Wilder Drug Store, this city where this remarkable mixture is being introduced to the public of this city and vicinity. First of all HOYT'S COMPOUND is a great cleanser and will cleanse your bowels (gradually—but drastic or severe) as they were NEVER cleansed before bringing out old, foul impurities that may have been inside of you for weeks or even months, contaminating your whole inner system and being the real cause of most of your trouble all along; and, at the same time, Hoyt's Compound has a great action upon the kidneys, liver and stomach, often putting an end to old ailing symptoms in those organs that had defied nearly everything else. In fact, Chillicothe people are saying this here is a medicine DIFFERENT from anything that ever came here before and some of the best residents of this whole section are publicly endorsing its remarkable action upon the human system and urging all who suffer to go and get it and take it. For instance, just a few days ago Mrs. John McCormick, Clarksburg, Ohio, made the following statement, in praise of Hoyt's Compound:

"Have been a great victim of stomach trouble for 18 years," said Mrs. McCormick. "After every meal I would bloat and swell and suffer extremely from gas pains which seemed to center around my heart. Many times I thought that I had drawn my last breath and thought that my heart would stop beating. Had gotten to be a great victim of constipation and my whole system was completely wrecked. Was unable to rest at night and always felt tired and worn out. My appetite had fallen off and I was continually troubled with rheumatism, until I was almost paralyzed in my hips. I want everyone to know that since I have taken THREE BOTTLES of this Hoyt's Compound my condition has been greatly altered. This Hoyt's seemed to drive that gas right out of my stomach, improve my appetite and I am never troubled with rheumatism. Kidneys and bladder are strengthened, bowels are regular and my work is now a pleasure to me because I always feel well. I do not hesitate in saying publicly that Hoyt's Compound is by far the GREATEST MEDICINE EVER, in my opinion, and I heartily recommend it to others who are in ill health."

Hoyt's Compound is now being introduced to large crowds of seekers of glorious new health every day at Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville, Ohio.—Adv.

Great Diplomat Well Paid, Document Shows

A valuable document, believed to have been stolen from archives of the French government in the revolution of 1793, is included in a special one-copy edition of the life of Talleyrand, which is in possession of a member of the Talleyrand family. The paper orders the payment of 300 francs to Charles Maurice de Talleyrand-Périgord for his services as ambassador to the court of St. James in the reign of Louis Philippe, a post given him for pointing out that monarch's accession to the throne.

The paper is interesting and curious in that it reveals the astonishing sum paid Talleyrand at this period—300,000 francs being almost a princely fortune, far above the average reward of ambassadors.

A woman who gathered the material for the special edition, found the document in the hands of an autograph collector. It is considered the gem of the entire collection which includes many personal letters and valuable records of intrigue and romance in French life under five Bourbon kings.—Kansas City Star.

"Peking Duck" is a dish popular to Lavo and Nollie M. Scammon, in John O'Hanlon's Weekly. In a Java hotel you order Peking Duck. The waiter brings in a large bowl of rice. You take a generous portion on the soup plate provided. Behind him in a row are from 10 to 15 other waiters, each with a dish or two from which you take a sample. There are carrie chickens, fried bananas, dried fish and hot, hard-boiled duck eggs preserved, candied, chopped onions, chunks of pineapple, raw, herbed, sliced, mushrooms, peppers, chilies, something up to 20 varieties. TIGERS ANNEX THREE FIRSTS IN FIELD MEET

Circleville Makes Good Showing Although Entered In Only Five Events.

The new league of which Circleville is a member, held its first athletic activity, a track meet, at Westerville on the Otterbein College track Monday. Westerville took first with 41 points; Bexley took second with 35; Grandview, 25; Circleville, 19, and Grandville, 11.

Circleville did exceptionally well considering the fact that the Tigers did not have an entry in five events. Circleville tracksters took their share of firsts, by taking first in the mile, half-mile, and 220. Hussey, the Tiger's distance man, won two events, the mile and half-mile, and Heiskell took first in the 220 and second in the 100. Adkins took third in the pole vault.

Those making the trip from Circleville were as follows: Hussey, Shasteen, Caldwell, Adkins, Heiskell, Barnhill and Zeimer.

A brief report follows:
100 Yd. Dash—1st Conger, Grandview; 2nd Heiskell, Circleville.

220 Yd. Dash—1, Heiskell, Circleville.

440 Yd. Dash—1, Conger, Grandview.
1/2 Mile—1, Hussey, Circleville.
1 Mile—Hussey, Circleville.
Relay—1, Westerville.
High jump—1, Westerville.
Shot put—1, Westerville.
Discus—1, Westerville.
Javelin—1, Westerville.
Broad jump—1, Bexley.
Pole vault—1, Bexley; third, Adkins, Circleville.

WHY CIRCLEVILLE SHOULD SUPPORT CLEAN-UP WEEK

There are many reasons why every one should help in this campaign. In the first place it is sanitary. This should be reason enough why every person in Circleville should enter into the spirit of Clean-Up week and support this idea. It will add much to the appearance of the city. Civic pride should be strong enough to make every one enjoy cleaning up and painting up around his home.

Spring is the season of the year when one thinks of renovation. This is the time of the year when the housewife starts in to do the house-cleaning. She appreciates the fact that this job should be to dispose of the accumulations that the winter months bring. She cleans every nook and corner, the rugs are cleaned, the draperies are cleaned, windows are again washed and many other things are done at this time.

The man of the house should get the inspiration and get busy out in the yard. Old tin cans should be hauled away as well as the ash pile. The yard should be raked and the dead grass burned. Perhaps the back fence needs fixing, or the alley gate is loose. There are many things that can be done around the yard and add to the appearance. Then too, the yard that is cleaned-up is not so much an eye-sore as the one that has junk piled in it.

There are many reasons why every body in Circleville should jump in and help make this a successful Clean-Up, Paint-Up and Fix-Up week, and it is hoped that every one will do their share in making the city have the best appearance it has had in its history. One negligent person can spoil the appearance of a whole block. Each person owes it to himself and to his neighbors to back this commendable movement to a successful conclusion.

Explaining "Curb Market"
"Curb" is the abbreviation of the word "curbstone." A curb market is one wherein the brokers buy and sell securities on the curbstone or in the middle of the street, as in the curb market in New York. It is in this market that stocks of a great many companies are dealt in which have not applied to the New York Stock exchange for listing, or which cannot be listed there, and where stocks are dealt in "when is sued"—that is, between the time of their issue and listing on the New York Stock exchange.

Small Things Count
The lives of truest heroism are those in which there are no great deeds to look back upon. It is the little things well done that go to make up a successful and truly good life.—Roosevelt.

Sheepish Admissions
Many a big financier who would think nothing of turning a half-million dollar business deal, will sheepishly admit to cherishing high spots of the most astonishing character—a last-minute touchdown during college days; the farewell kiss of an old sweetheart, or even an exceptionally low golf score.—Farm and Home.

In Praise of Work
Accustom a man to 10 hours of work a day, and he will regard 10 hours' work as a soft snap. But accustom him to working 7 or 8 hours, and he will look upon 10 hours of work as an unbearable hardship. Young men of today too often are under the disadvantage of having been trained in the 8-hour idea.—American Magazine.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is expelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant to take. Get the genuine—

Banish Worry

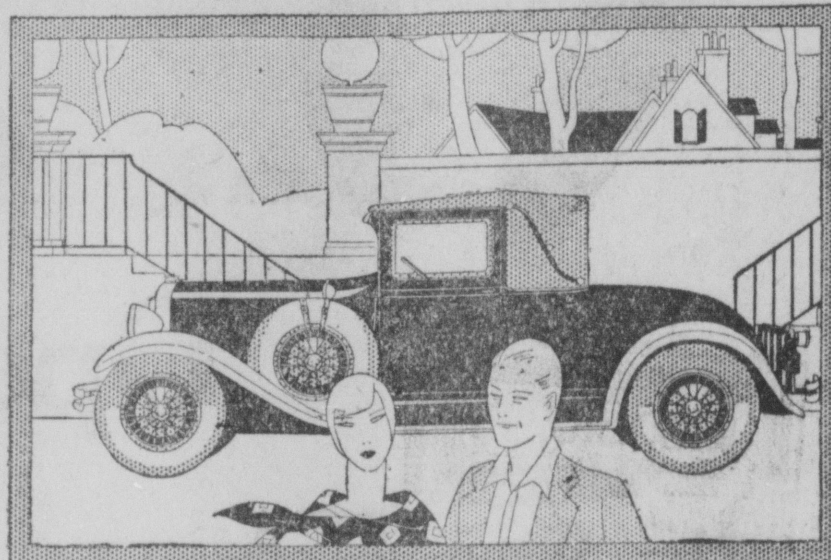

Worry is one of the greatest burdens we carry through life. It saps more of our strength than any other one thing. And it is so cowardly. Care seldom rides on the back of the man who faces his problems with courage.—Grit.

Your
is still a good car

THE Model T Ford led the motor industry for twenty years because of its sturdy worth, reliability and economy. Those same reasons continue to make it a good car.

As a matter of fact, nearly one-fourth of all the automobiles in use today are Model T Fords. Millions of them can be driven two, three and even five more years with reasonable care and proper replacements. Figures show that the average life is seven years.

Don't sacrifice your Model T, therefore, but take it to the Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of putting it in A1 shape. A very small expenditure may be the means of giving you thousands of miles of additional service.

For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. This price includes new bearings, reboring cylinders and any other work necessary. Parts are extra.

Valves can be ground and carbon removed for $3 to $4. The cost of tightening all main bearings is only $6. The labor charge for overhauling the front axle is $4.50 to $5—rear axle assembly, $5.75 to $7.

New universal joint will be installed for a labor charge of $3. Brake shoes relined for $1.50. Rear spring and perches rebushed for $1.75. The cost of overhauling the starting motor is $3. A labor charge of approximately $2.50 covers the overhauling of the generator.

It will pay you, therefore, to see your Ford dealer and have him put your Model T in good running order. By doing so you will protect and maintain the investment you have in your car and get months and years of reliable transportation at a very low cost per mile.

ANNEX FREE FIRSTS FIELD MEET

Circleville Makes Good Showing Although Entered in Only Five Events.

The new league of which Circleville is a member, held its first athletic activity, a track meet, at Circleville on the Otterbein College track Monday. Westerville took first with 41 points; Bexley took second with 35; Grandview, Circleville, 19, and Grandville.

Circleville did exceptionally well considering the fact that the Tigers did not have an entry in five events. Circleville tracksters took their share of firsts, by taking first in the mile, half-mile, and 220. Hussey, the Tiger's distance runner, won two events, the mile and half-mile, and Heiskell took first in the 220 and second in the 440. Adkins took third in the mile vault.

Those making the trip from Circleville were as follows: Hussey, Shasteen, Caldwell, Adkins, Heiskell, Barnhill and Zeimer.

A brief report follows:
100 Yd. Dash—1st Conger, Grandview; 2nd Heiskell, Circleville.

220 Yd. Dash—1, Heiskell, Circleville.

440 Yd. Dash—1, Conger, Grandview.

1 Mile—1, Hussey, Circleville
1 Mile—Hussey, Circleville
Relay—1, Westerville.
High jump—1, Westerville.
Shot put—1, Westerville.
Discus—1, Westerville.
Javelin—1, Westerville.

Pole vault—1, Bexley; third, Adkins, Circleville.

WHY CIRCLEVILLE SHOULD SUPPORT CLEAN-UP WEEK

There are many reasons why every one should help in this campaign. In the first place it is sanitary. This should be reason enough why every person in Circleville should enter into the spirit of Clean-Up week and support this idea. It will add much to the appearance of the city. Civic pride should be strong enough to make every one enjoy cleaning up and putting up around his home.

Spring is the season of the year when one thinks of renovation. This is the time of the year when the housewife starts in to do the house-cleaning. She appreciates the fact that this job should be done. The accumulations of the winter months bring. She cleans every nook and corner, the draperies are cleaned, the windows are again washed and many other things are done at this time.

The man of the house should get the inspiration and get busy out in the yard. Old tin cans should be hauled away as well as the ash pile. The yard should be raked and the dead grass burned. Perhaps the back fence needs fixing, the alley gate is loose. There are many things that can be done around the yard and add to the appearance. Then too, the yard that is cleaned-up is not so much an eye-sore as the one that has junk piled in it.

There are many reasons why every body in Circleville should help in and help make this a successful Clean-Up. Paint-Up and Fix-Up week, and it is hoped that every one will do their share in making the city have the best appearance it has had in its history. The negligent person can spoil the appearance of a whole block. Each person owes it to himself and to his neighbors to back this commendable movement to a successful conclusion.

One hundred per cent efficiency.

Explaining "Curb Market"

"Curb" is the abbreviation of the word "curbstone". A curb market is one wherein the brokers buy and sell securities on the curbstone or in the middle of the street, as in the curb market in New York. It is in this market that stocks of a great many companies are dealt in which have not applied to the New York Stock exchange for listing, or which cannot be listed there and where stocks are dealt in "when is sued"—that is, between the time of their issue and listing on the New York Stock exchange.

Small Things Count
The lives of most heroes are those in which there are no great deeds to look back upon. It is the little things well done that go to make up a successful and truly good life.—Roosevelt.

Sheepish Admissions

Many a big financier who would think nothing of turning a half million dollar business deal, will sheepishly admit to cherishing high spots of the most astoundingly dramatic—a last minute topdown during college days, the first kiss of an old sweetheart, or even an exceptional low golf score—Tara and Home.

In Praise of Work

Accustom a man to 16 hours of work a day, and he will regard 10 hours' work as a soft snap. But accustom him to working 7 or 8 hours, and he will look upon 10 hours of work as an unbearable hardship. Young men of today too often are under the disadvantage of having been trained in the 8-hour idea—American Magazine.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled, all sourness is soon gone, the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant to take. Get the genuine—

Fountain Gushes Wine

In the town of Marino in the Roman Campagna there is a fountain which occasionally flows with wine. For an hour in the vintage season of each year the thirsty may freely fill their pitchers.

The custom of free wine is an old one. In the market place near by stands a giantlike basket filled with clusters of grapes, its diameter almost as great as that of a small town gas tank. The basket belongs to the town, and whatever of its contents is left is made into wine for the free fountain in the following year. Great crowds gather for the celebration.

Difference in Rainfall

There is uncertainty about what constitutes a day's rainfall. At London, for example, popularly regarded as a wet place, it seems that the best the clouds ever have done was 3.12 inches of rain in 24 hours. In France, however, there was a shower at Jougous which checked out at 31.17 inches in the same time. At Genoa, the best rain was 36 inches for a day's job. (Herald) has a record of 31 inches, but it took 26 hours to get down. In the Kasbi hills, India, the record drizzle is 30 inches a day for five consecutive days. This foots up at 15,000 tons on every acre.

HOYT'S COMPOUND GREATEST EVER

Clarksburg Lady Calls It Wonderful: Describes Its Action.

The great medicine, known as the HOYT'S COMPOUND has now become a veritable sensation here in Circleville and at the present time larger crowds than ever before are flocking in daily to the Wilder Drug Store, this city where this remarkable mixture is being introduced to the public of this city and vicinity. First of all HOYT'S COMPOUND is a great cleanser and will cleanse your bowels (gradually—but drastic or severe) as they were NEVER cleansed before bringing out old, foul impurities that may have been inside of you for weeks or even months, contaminating your whole inner system and being the real cause of most of your trouble all along; and, at the same time, Hoyt's Compound has a great action upon the kidneys, liver and stomach, often putting an end to old ailing symptoms in those organs that had defied nearly everything else. In fact, Chillicothe people are saying this here is a medicine DIFFERENT from anything that ever came here before and some of the best residents of this whole section are publicly endorsing its remarkable action upon the human system and urging all who suffer to go and get it and take it. For instance, just a few days ago Mrs. John McCormick, Clarksburg, Ohio, made the following statement, in praise of Hoyt's Compound:

"Have been a great victim of stomach trouble for 18 years," said Mrs. McCormick. "After every meal I would bloat and swell and suffer extremely from gas pains which seemed to center around my heart. Many times I thought that I had drawn my last breath and thought that my heart would stop beating. Had gotten to be a great victim of constipation and my whole system was completely wrecked. Was unable to rest at night and always felt tired and worn out. My appetite had fallen off and I was continually troubled with rheumatism, until I was almost paralyzed in my hips. I want everyone to know that since I have taken THREE BOTTLES of this Hoyt's Compound my condition has been greatly altered. This Hoyt's seemed to drive that gas right out of my stomach, improve my appetite and I am never troubled with rheumatism. Kidneys and bladder are strengthened, bowels are regular and my work is now a pleasure to me because I always feel well. I do not hesitate in saying publicly that Hoyt's Compound is by far the GREATEST MEDICINE EVER, in my opinion, and I heartily recommend it to others who are in ill health."

Hoyt's Compound is now being introduced to large crowds of seekers of glorious new health every day at Wilder's Drug Store, Circleville, Ohio.—Adv.

Great Diplomat Well Paid, Document Shows

A valuable document, believed to have been stolen from archives of the French government in the revolution of 1793, is included in a special one-page edition of the life of Talleyrand, which is in possession of a member of the Talleyrand family. The paper orders the payment of 300 francs to Charles Maurice de Talleyrand-Perigord, France's most famous statesman, for his services as ambassador to the court of St. James in the reign of Louis Philippe, a post given him for promoting that monarch's accession to the throne.

The paper is interesting and curious in that it reveals the astonishing sum paid Talleyrand at this period, 300,000 francs being almost a princely fortune, far above the average reward of ambassadors.

A woman who gathered the material for the special edition, found the document in the hands of an autograph collector. It is considered the gem of the entire collection, which includes many personal letters and valuable records of intrigues and romances in French life under five Bourbon kings.—Kansas City Star.

MRS. CHAMBERS WINS DEBATE

Mrs. F. H. Chambers, a student at Oregon State College, Salem, Ore., on a debate for that school recently. She will be remembered as Miss Edna Smith, daughter of Mrs. M. W. Dixon and a former student in the New Holland high school. Her husband, Professor Merrill W. Chambers is an instructor in the Oregon State College. Mrs. Chambers is studying for her degree as a Doctor of Medicine. She is the niece of Mrs. Bert Ater of Clarksburg.

In speaking of a recent debate at the Oregon school in which Mrs. Chambers won most of the credit, a Salem paper carried the following story:

"The straightforward delivery and resourceful arguments of a married co-ed, Mrs. Edna Chambers played a large part tonight in the victory of Oregon State College women debaters over a team representing Wilamette University."

CANTATA DIRECTED BY MRS. WILL

The musical division of the Monday club had charge of the program Monday night, the last meeting of the club year. After a short business session, the first number on the program, a paper, "Some High Lights in the Musical History of Great Britain," was read by Miss Anna Florence. She described the British music, as holding true British characteristics, conservatism, no extremes, very little variety, a small degree of individuality or originality. But England is undoubtedly most noted for its wonderfully trained boys' choirs and widely known choral conductors. In conclusion, Miss Florence gave a short biography of Henry Smart, the English composer. It was the cantata of this musical personage that was sung at this time by the Monday club chorus.

In the rendition of this difficult musical venture, the ability of the soloists and the director, was strongly marked, as was the work of the accompanist, Miss Abbe Mills Clark. Mrs. Clark will be the able director of the chorus. The trio composed of Mrs. Harry

Ballyhoo Buster Johnny Can Bust Others; Gets Nowhere

Odd Career Keeps Public Guessing What He'll Do Next Fight

POOR Johnny Risko, the Cleveland Baker Boy, poor in the respect that he gets blamed for running more potential champs than any other living heavy, but gets the dough just the same. Johnny himself isn't such hot pumpkins as a fighter and probably never will be a champ, but he just seems to delight in knocking title aspirations of others into a cocked hat.

Funny thing, too, about the Baker Boy, just when everyone figures him in a soft spot where he'll flop his opponent, don't it seem that Johnny always gets dumped?

Starting with knocking slugging Paul Berlenbach all over the point, Johnny has been mixing up the heavy situation ever since Jack Delaney was coming along nicely after meeting Paulino when along came Johnny. After this fight the "Paper of the North" seemed so discouraged that he lost to Heeneey and Sharkey took him in one round and he has now slid into practical oblivion.

"Upset" Johnny next took a fall out of big George Godfrey just when Godfrey looked like the best bet on the list. Then just as the late Tex Rickard thought he had Jack Sharkey all ready to flatten Tunney for the title, Johnny stepped in and spotted it all. That fight knocked the well laid plans for a row of ash-carts and Tom Heeneey got the chance at Tunney instead of the "Boston Strong Boy."

Someone started to ballyhoo Risko as the best heavy in the game. What happened? Maxie Schmeling, Heffner singing the leading soprano, Mrs. Frank Bennett, second soprano and Mrs. James P. Moffitt taking the contralto part, were especially enjoyable, and form a musical combination that everyone will be anxious to hear. Miss Helen Marion and Miss Mary Radloff played important roles as soloists.

The entire cantata, carefully rehearsed by a most satisfying degree of perfection, was thoroughly enjoyed by the club members, who were the only persons favored at this time. However, the cantata will be repeated for the public on Tuesday evening, May 7, at eight o'clock in the Monday club rooms. In addition to the cantata, a well selected program will also be offered. Tickets may be procured from Mrs. B. R. Bales or from any member of the Monday club chorus.

The meeting was concluded with reports of the delegates who attended the Ohio Conference of Women's clubs, in Dayton the past week.
